

FACILITATOR PROFILE

Laurice Temple

Empowerment. Wellbeing. Courage. Safety Mindset. These are Laurice's favorite topics of discussion with her clients. Laurice is the founder and Chief Rippler at Ripple Affect Institute (RAI), which focuses on positive societal attitudinal shifts with clients and community members to further develop their aspirations into purpose-driven, value-aligned perspective, and driving more sustainable outcomes that have identifiable and measurable impacts.

Laurice has worked around the world in the infrastructure industry for most of her career, is an accredited Project Manager, has a Certificate IV in Front-line Project Management, and is a graduate of the Australian Institute Company Directors course (GAICD). She has been a licensee for The Wellbeing Lab since 2019.

Through her own personal experiences of living and traveling around the world, from working in large corporations to running her own businesses, and working in mainly male-dominated industries, she has come to fully appreciate the importance of openly embracing "Wellbeing" and has built the Ripple Affect Institute around having Wellbeing and Psychological Safety, utilizing the PERMAH framework as a core.

She now collaborates with several other amazing values-aligned consultants in WA, NSW and Victoria to assist clients all across Australia.

The aura of energy that floats around Laurice infuses you with a feeling of 'anything is possible'. Laurice brings genuine empathy and tough love to all of her interactions as she focuses on credible, long-lasting change. A purposeful driven role model whose curiosity about individuals as well as systemic cultural and conventional beliefs elevates discussions to focus on thoughtful, cogent and potent change. An encounter with Laurice is always compelling. I highly recommend her as a coach, facilitator, mentor and game-changer for you as an individual or an organization.
